

7th Ten Bell Works (3/15-3/29)

1. What do you think you can expect on the English EOC? What would be the best way to help prepare?
2. Think back on the previous three quarters of your first year of high school. What were some of the most surprising parts? What has been your favorite part so far?
3. What do you like about poetry? (Or what do you think others like about it?)
What do you dislike about poetry? (Or what do you think others dislike about it?)
4. Read "The Red Wheelbarrow". Draw a picture of what came to mind when you read it. Be prepared to share!

5. Write a two line poem about how your morning has been. You can make it rhyme, you can make it free verse - you can write it however you want!
6. Analyze this painting the way we have been doing together: What do you see? What do you think is going on? Time period?

7. This Shakespearean-style sonnet is actually a pop song! Which song is it?

LXXVIII.

I once was told I'd swindled be, for Chance did not me with intelligence endow,
although the prophet took a foolish stance:
her fingers form'd an "L" upon her brow.
But Father Time moves forth with constant haste,
and so I've always sought my share of joy;
to otherwise exist would be a waste —
to knowledge without wisdom's grace employ.
Our lives are short and fill'd with much to see;
why not seek out the roads less travel'd by?
Thou canst not know what treasures there may be until thou'st to diverging paths apply.
— No others could be made the way you are;
now go and play, for thou art naught but star!

Smash Mouth, "All-Star"

8. Write a four line poem in [A-B-A-B] rhyme scheme about what you plan to do over break.
9. What's your favorite poem? (Remember, songs can count as poetry!)
10. Write down your Good Thing! Or, write down what you're most excited to do over break!
